

PUBLIC HEALTH WEEK FOCUS: IMMUNIZATIONS

Pike County Health Department
Home Health & Hospice

In celebration of National Public Health Week, Pike County Health Department wants to offer immunization awareness to the community. Immunizations are a vital part of staying healthy and preventing illness in our homes and in the community. Through immunizations we can prevent against the spread of diseases and CANCER. Remember that through immunizations, you are protecting yourself as well as those around you. Even though you may not get sick, you could be carrying the virus that could cause another individual to get sick.

Feel free to stop into the Health Department to get your shot record checked or just familiarize yourself with vaccines available to you and your family. We have vaccinations that are covered by your health insurance at no cost to you as well as vaccinations for those without insurance. This way we can change our future together and immunize everyone with no out of pocket cost. Some of the immunizations we offer are below, contact our office for market pricing.
